Jas. H. Frazier, of our town, pays the largest taxes of any citizen-taxpayer in Letcher county. His individual taxes amount to over $1,100.00.

Roy F. Lewis, Ivor Back and Mrs. Steve Cornett are fishing and hunting in the everglades and sunny waters of Florida and will be away some weeks.

We are told that at least half of the taxpayers of our county failed to pay taxes before Dec. 1, thus permitting the commissions allowed by law to attach to them. This will amount to thousands of dollars in extra cost. Plenty of good citizens have told the sheriff that they just could not get the money with which to pay them.

Dr. Gid Whitaker bought the Patrick Caudill home in Lewis Addition. Consideration $3,000 it is said. If you don't want to trade don't propose to Dock.

Rev. Thos. B. Talbot, of Lexington, arrived here Saturday and assisted by his wife, is conducting an interesting series of meetings daily at the Presbyterian church. Rev. Talbot is one of the most entertaining speakers to adorn a pulpit. He is a natural humorist and never fails to please and benefit his hearers.

H. B. Branson, leading Letcher citizen who lately bought a fine farm in Mississippi and is now locating on it, was here this week getting ready to leave.

The sixteen months old baby of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Back drank a quantity of coal oil Sunday evening and all that night lingered between life and death. Monday morning it had recovered sufficiently to indicate that all probable danger was over.

Mrs. Ludema Webb, the aged mother of ye editor, fell at her home at Sergeant and was seriously hurt. She was somewhat improved Sunday, but is still in a dangerous condition. She is in her seventy-sixth year.

Monday morning a cold rain and a cooler air blew in and by noon big fluffy bunches of snow were flying thru the air. Real wintry weather, something we have not had this year, is apparently near at hand.

Joe Kassem, a leading Blackey merchant, was up Sunday and had the Eagle print some big closing out circulars. Joe is putting his whole big stock of general merchandise on the market and is slashing the very life out of prices. Eagle readers will do well to go to Blackey, and see the "show."

Miss Esteva Webb entertained the Christian Endeavor Society of the Presbyterian church at her home Saturday evening last. About forty-five guests were in attendance, including Revs. Scott and Talbot and their handsome widows. It was a gay occasion. Games were played and delightful music rendered. At 9 o'clock refreshments were served and all retired quietly to their homes.

John and Josh Trotti, of Lake Charles La., were business visitors in our city the past week. They are interested in the Swift Coal and Timber Company, a Southern Corporation which owns a very considerable amount of coal and timber property in our county. You would not think of it to meet him but Josh Trotti is the present mayor of the city of Lake Charles and is a very eminent southern gentleman.

Dr. Fitzpatrick played the role of Stork Wednesday and now Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Wischert are the proud owners of a big simon-pure democrat. He bears the euphonic title of Herbert Webb Wischert.

Judge Dearing, of Louisville and the rest of the State, is here for a few days.

Burglars entered the Colonel Webb store on Main street Wednesday and took a good suit of clothes and an overcoat. Apparently the cash drawer containing only a lot of pennies was looked into but undisturbed. Entrance was obtained by springing the front door lock. As yet there is no clue to the thief.

Our neighbor and friend, Bill Brown, of Ice, bought a half interest in the Big Four Coal Co. at Caudill. This is an excellent proposition and its future success is practically assured. J. C. Burton owns the other half interest.

Old Mr. and Mrs. Stork flew in above town this week and left a pair of twin boys at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ike Morgan. Their postoffice address hereafter will be Sergeant.

Spencer Johnson, of McRoberts, was down just recovering from the great shock he received on account of the results of the November election.

John Barr is putting in what he says is to be a first-class restaurant on Main Street in the Lewis Building.

New Repair Shop

What Whitesburg has needed for a long time is being erected in the old Whitesburg Hotel building in town. This is an electric shoe and general repair shop. Robbins & Slone, formerly of McRoberts, are the men at the head of the venture. Mr. Howard, long identified with shoe repair work at Neon and other points in this section and who is a well known mechanic, is erecting the machinery and may be connected with the repair work. Our people should give this concern every possible encouragement by bringing and sending their work to them. A trial is at least asked an opportunity to make good which we believe will result.

We promised to mark those off our list who failed to respond to our notice sent them a few days ago. We love our subscribers; many of them have been with us for fifteen years and we don't want to lose them or them to lose the Eagle. They are too good to be classed as "dead" and we give all another chance. Did you get a statement of subscription from us, and did you heed it? If not this little notice is especially for you. Please heed!

STRIKE-NO-STOCK MONTH MORE ABOUT ROAD FUNDS

The management of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company has set apart the month of December, in which to make a vigorous campaign among its employees to avoid the striking and killing of live stock upon its right-of-way. The owners of live stock are asked to co-operate with the management in this campaign.

The company reports that during the year 1920 and during the first nine months of 1921, animals were killed on its lines as follows:

9,660 cattle.
11,138 hogs.
1,491 sheep.
1,499 horses and mules.

The total amount paid therefor to the owners by the railroad company has been $750,000, to date.

This great loss can be materially reduced by the employees of the railroad making greater efforts to avoid the striking of stock and by the owners of stock preventing it from straying along the railroad right-of-way.

This killing of stock by railroad trains has long excited the sympathy of the Eagle, aside from the monetary loss to its owner, and also to the railroad company. Any steps to prevent its continuance should receive the hearty co-operation both of the railroad company and of the adjoining land owners.

The Eagle has often wondered why the railroad company has not seen fit to fence its right-of-way, inasmuch as under the law it only has to pay one-half the cost of the fence and the adjoining land owner the other half.

Jail Birds Fly

The impossible has happened. Again Tuesday morning blankets and sheets were flapping beneath the windows on the outside of Letcher's palace of stone. They were shedded angel's wings and from these four inmates of the jail too good to be barricaded within had flown to the tall timbers. How they accomplished the impossibility of getting thru the windows is another story, but the good, new and efficient Bill Reynolds will find the key and hereafter we believe he flappers or early morning ghosts will appear again. Bill, do thyself no harm. The escaped prisoners are Burnett Ison, Ed Harris, Garlan Smith and — Johnson of McRoberts. All except Ison are charged with whiskey offenses. Ison was in jail on a murder charge.

Hon. Sam Collins, of Lexington, was a business visitor here and in the county.

Big Jim Wright, leading Jack-horn citizen, was a pleasant Eagle caller. Jim is not only a model citizen but a model farmer as well.

J. B. McCauley, who manipulates much of the business affairs at Mayking, was down hustling around.

land owner the other half. Certainly, it would seem that the expense of maintaining claim agents and paying stock claims would justify the company in paying one-half the cost of fencing, and it would likewise seem that the loss to the adjoining land owners in having his stock killed, and in expenses of litigation would justify him in paying his one-half of the cost of fencing. In such a case the land owner would get the additional benefit of his lands inclosed to that extent.

The Eagle realizes that owing to the many short curves in the track and the speed and weight of trains, and that many of the trains run at night, it is impossible for an engineer to avoid, at all times, striking stock that has strayed upon the track, but the Eagle believes that the train crews can, by taking extra precaution, reduce, somewhat, the amount of stock struck by trains.

The Eagle likewise thinks that many stock owners know of the propensity of their stock to stray along the railroad tracks, and in shady cuts, and negligently or wilfully shut their eyes to the fact that it is a matter of a short time, only, until they are struck.

The Eagle urges train men and stock owners to make every effort, not only during December, but in the future, to prevent the striking of stock by engines, and to prevent the straying of stock upon the railroad track, and also urges upon both the railroads and the adjoining land owners to fence the right-of-way, at least through populous sections and places attractive to stock.

in Memoriam

November thirteenth 1921 is a day that will be long remembered by W. R. Caudill. On that day the Angel of Death gently entered his home and took from him his loving wife and the mother of his two little babes. Emmaline was as kind and loving as the flowers and as gentle as heaven's dews, and was loved as she was good. She suffered greatly and at the end with a smile on her face she closed her eyes and passed to a heavenly home. In all my associations with her I can truthfully say I never met a lovelier person. She was always kind and gentle and a glow of happiness always beamed on her face. We know she is now basking in the sunshine of God's glory, there awaiting loved ones to follow after. She is now more than conqueror. All things are under her feet. Let heaven's anthem ring.

Gather up my little babies,
Lead them with a happy band,
Mother will be there waiting ever,
In that bright and happy land.

Subscribed in loving remembrance this Nov. 28, 1921.

George Criscillis, formerly and for years a citizen of our county and who married a Letcher county girl, now residing at Williamsburg, was a business visitor here this week.

Whitesburg, Ky.,
Nov. 29, 1921
Editor Mountain Eagle,

Dear Sir: I note an article in a late issue of the Courier-Journal, in which Mr. Boggs, State Highway Engineer, makes an appeal to the General Assembly-elect, to make preparation for adequate funds to carry on and speed up the completion of a primary system of roads in our state.

It occurred to me that the Courier-Journal did not have sufficient circulation in our counties to advertise this as it should be advertised. Realizing this fact, and the importance of the matter, I wait to ask you to publish this article in your paper as my hearty endorsement of Mr. Boggs' plan.

It is very important that our representative-elect and every citizen in our county and other counties understand and appreciate the significance of this plan, because if successfully carried through it is going to put the "R" in roads.

In the plan Mr. Boggs proposes to make preparations by legislation to have at least ten million dollars available every year through the source of state bonds, until the entire primary system is completed, which would mean a period of from five to six years and an approximate sum of $70,000,000. During that time our state would receive its quota of Federal Aid in such sums and in whatever form our federal laws permitted. Such an arrangement would enable us to complete our system of roads within a period of six years, at the end of which time we would have a complete system of class A roads through the state, connecting each county seat and as adjoining states have adopted similar programs we would be connected with them in the same type of roads.

I wish to say, emphatically, to any citizen of our section who might be influenced by my judgment in this matter, that this is the only source through which we will be able to obtain roads to satisfy the ever increasing demand of traffic for them in any reasonable length of time.

There can be a good many argument introduced in favor of this plan, and, in my judgment, none to the contrary, but in this I shall only mention the most important ones which within themselves should be sufficient proof to us that Mr. Boggs' idea is the solution of our problem. In as much as he has clearly pointed out the source, it is our duty to support him in getting the means.

It has occurred to me that we are very insistent and consistent in our demands for roads, but do we go any further than demand? I'm afraid too many of us do a lot of howling and very little thinking. If we did a little more concrete thinking we would relieve the State Highway Department of a number of unnecessary burdens. In other words, relieve them of the necessity of having to beg, plead, and pray for our own salvation and finally cram such things down our throats before we realize that they are the things we needed and wanted all the while.

To get back to the reasons for adopting this plan,—to me the reason is apparent and can be explained in a few words. We want roads, we insist on having them; therefore, the next thing to do is to find the way to get them. But, for the sake of argument, let us say that under the present law and without funds available under that law, we could not hope for a complete system of roads in less than 20 years, while on the other hand, if we adopted the plan proposed by Mr. Boggs it insures the completion of the present program within five or six years, with less cost than to drag along 20 years and spend more money in the end. There is also the advantage of having the roads 13 years sooner, which, from the standpoint of development can hardly be estimated in value to humanity, civilization and effect upon the younger generation.

Furthermore, we should take into consideration the assets of a complete system of roads for 13 years and weigh this against the disadvantage of incomplete systems for 20 years, with the same amount of funds exhausted in the end, or necessarily a greater expenditure, due to the inevitable increase in cost by reason of time.

Another reason is one that the counties, as a unit independent from the state, should consider. In this plan every county will be relieved of the necessity of constructing and maintaining their main artery roads, as these will be constructed, with no cost to the county. This would enable each county to apply practically all the entire road funds to the construction and maintenance of their cross roads and bridges; an idea that should particularly appeal to the mountain county from the fact that the cross roads in mountain counties are necessarily more costly and require a larger maintenance fund than the level counties.

The source of liquidating these bonds proposed by Mr. Boggs, is through a tax on soft drinks and amusements, coupled with the present revenues.

THE SIMPLE LIFE

How many of my readers have thought of the simple life? If not, you who have not, travel with me a few minutes. There is every kind of life made up of every kind of people. There are those whose minds have never touched earth, who fly in mid-air, light, fantastic, baubles, that burst noiseless and when gone are not missed. There are those who ramble upon the earth making little or no impression where they go and when gone they too are little missed. Upon these two classes no responsibility for the world's progress exists and with them alone there would be no government, no constructive life, no inventions, in fact no anything, and the world would be a barren, worthless desert. But there is another class, numerous as the stars whose names have never been chanted on any stage or read upon the screen and these are the reserve life of the human fabric. In normal times and under ordinary conditions they play their part in silence. And a noble part it is. They are of the simple life. They are the strength of the nation. They till the soil and build homes, rear families and supply the rest of the world with the issues of life. They are up with the birds and whistle down their sorrows. He rises in the morning, with the lark he tunes his lays, and offers up his tribute to his God in prayer and praise. And then to his labors he cheerfully repairs in confidence believing that He will hear his prayers. When dark clouds come rolling up his little valley, when his rights and domains are threatened, when the call comes to arms for his country he kisses his wife and baby a sad adieu, grabs his old flint-lock from the rack over the door and goes forth to business. And tho his name may never be heard in the annals of history he is the real hero. He marched in the hottest of the shot and shell, with "My Country 'Tis of Thee" imbedded in his thoughts and actions. When the battle ends, when the victory is won he retires to his

Your neighbor lost his pocketbook but that did not worry him any because he makes it a rule to carry very little cash at any time. He uses the checking system. While his money remains safely in the bank he uses his check book and finds it more convenient and businesslike too. This man always has the "correct change" and every check he writes is marked PAID and returned to him which is an everlasting proof that payment has been properly made. He will never have to pay an account twice. Every man is judged according to his business methods. Those who are business like will be given credit far in advance of those who use poor methods. It pays to be up-to-date on this point.

[From the Lexington (Ky.) Thoroughbred Horse.]

It will be of particular interest to the breeders of thoroughbreds in this State, and to those persons everywhere who own and race horses to review the situation in Kentucky and to show the progress that has been made in the last seventeen years. As the value of stallions and broodmares depends on the quality of their produce and the ability of that produce to win stakes and purses, a comparison of the present prosperous condition of the turf with other days when prices were low and breeders and turfmen everywhere had cause for complaint will be of value at this time.

Never in the history of the turf have thoroughbreds been so valuable as they are right now. The best barometer is the public market and the auction sales at Saratoga last August showed that, despite the general prostration of business, well bred horses with individuality brought the best average in many years. The highest price of the season at Saratoga was $21,000 for the brother to The Porter. Several others were sold for more than $10,000 each and a number of likely looking colts and fillies brought from $5,000 to $7,000 each. The market generally was steady and unsport, which is to say it was stable.

The prices were based on the probable earning power of these colts and fillies, and if organizations like the Kentucky Jockey Club did not offer generous stakes and purses, it would not be possible for breeders to market their yearlings advantageously. Neither would it have been possible for S. C. Hildreth to have paid $125,000 for the brother to Man o' War, $150,000 for Inchequo, or for Benjamin Brock to have paid on a $75,000 valuation for the mighty Morvich, or for a number of others to have paid the large prices given for horses with capacity to hold their own in contests on the turf.

Fifteen years ago it was no uncommon thing in Kentucky for turfmen to run their horses for $400 purses. This year the Kentucky Jockey Club distributed in stakes and purses an average of $12,900 a day to the turfmen; no purse at Churchill Downs or Latonia was under $1,200, and many of them reaching $1,400 and $1,500 each. In 1905 the Kentucky Derby was worth $4,850. Since the existence of the Kentucky Jockey Club, which was organized three years ago, the Kentucky Derby was worth in 1919 over $20,000; in 1920 over $30,000, and in 1921 the Kentucky Jockey Club added $50,000 to the royal stake. All the other stakes on the roster of the Kentucky Jockey Club at Lexington, Churchill Downs and Latonia have been proportionately increased.

In the three years of its existence the Kentucky Jockey Club has distributed to the turfmen $3,479,655, the greater part of which sum was paid to citizens of Kentucky who own and breed race horses.

Since the Kentucky Legislature in 1906 created the State Racing Commission, we have had cleaner and better racing than ever before, and since the organization of the Kentucky Jockey Club we have had an era of prosperity for breeders and turfmen unequalled in the turf history of this State.

Here are the official figures for the past seventeen years, from 1905 to 1921, inclusive:

Lived Years On Bread And Milk

For More Than Decade, Malady Of Alabama Woman Was Continually Sapping Her Strength.

Mrs. H. P. Barrett, of Republic suburb of Birmingham, Ala., gives the facts of her remarkable experience with Tanlac as follows: During the past fifteen years I have spent more than one thousand dollars trying to get rid of a complaint that was gradually sapping my strength, but until I got hold of Tanlac nothing helped me. For the past four years I have lived almost entirely on milk and bread, and finally even that went against me. Before I had finished the first bottle of Tanlac I got so I could eat anything, and I certainly bless the day I first got this medicine for I believe it has added years to my life. The people in my neighborhood were so surprised at the change in me that fourteen of them by actual count are now taking Tanlac.

NATIONS TO HOLD ANNUAL CONFAB

President Is Not Grieved at Changed Plans, Says White House Authority.

WOULD CONTINUE THE PARLEY

Favors Inviting Nations Now Participating in Conference, Including Germany, to Pass on Present Deliberations.

London, Nov. 28.—The Daily Graphic says it is extremely probable that Premier Lloyd George will go to Washington shortly, as it is felt that his presence at the armament conference there has become necessary.

Washington, Nov. 28.—A yearly conference of the principal nations of the world will be the chief good result of the armament conference, according to the predictions of many statesmen.

It was admitted officially at the White House that such an annual gathering has been suggested to President Harding by delegates to the present conference as the course best calculated to insure peace on earth. No attempt will be made at this parley to devise a program of reduced armament. The size of the existing armies will be left to the discretion of each power without recommendations.

It was indicated that a yearly conference would have the fullest support of the administration.

It would also be advisable, the administration believes, for such a meeting not to be confined to nations attending the armament conference, but broadened to include such nations as Germany, Rumania and other powers.

Statesmen at the conference have come to realize that the world is not yet ready for the idealistic era of peace based on international good will rather than on fears inspired by big armies and navies.

Views of President

President Harding is understood to have told delegates he would not be "grieved" if the conference did not result in an association of nations, but would be "sorry" if plans were not made for annual meetings.

Although only the principal allied and associated powers and nations which have interests in the Orient are represented here, it is believed that after an agreement is reached by the conference its decisions will be submitted to other countries for approval.

This could be accomplished, it was pointed out, by the sending of representatives here or by action taken in the capitals of the respective countries.

The President is understood to have no preference as to the manner of recording an agreement reached by the conference as is represented as holding "that an understanding is as good as any scrap of paper."

Therefore they are turning their attention to the possibility of a future clash. The rules of war are to be rewritten.

War is to be as "humane" as possible, considering the frightful new machinery of death introduced since 1914.

Subcommittees have been appointed to study two new agencies of warfare—poison gas and airplanes. The reports are expected to recommend the revision of rules of civilized warfare.

Naval and military experts agree that "the next war" will be determined largely by gas, other poisonous chemicals and aircraft.

Plight of China

Discussion of the powers over China show that the Far East must, for a time at least, remain a potential source of friction. The impotent position of China herself is partly responsible for this.

Banking groups closely connected with several foreign governments have vast sums invested in China and their pressure on the powers to maintain their grip upon the Chinese channels of revenue is based to some extent upon fears that the investment might be jeopardized through weakness of the Chinese government if it is left entirely to its own devices.

FRENCH NOT ENTHUSIASTIC

Don't Want Germany Invited to Arms Conference at Washington.

Washington, Nov. 28.—The suggestion, voiced at the White House, that Germany might be invited to participate in the final phases of the disarmament conference was coldly received at the headquarters of the French delegation by several members, who declined to be quoted, but made no effort to conceal their opposition to the plan.

NAVY STOPS ENLISTMENTS

Temporary Cessation of Naval Recruiting Is Ordered by Secretary Denby.

FIRE SWEEPS AUGUSTA, GA.

Geneva Hotel and Many Other Buildings Destroyed by Early Morning Blaze.

LOSS PUT AT $2,000,000

Burning Embers Set Fire to Number of Structures in the Downtown Section—Most Disastrous Blaze in the City's History.

Augusta, Ga., Nov. 28.—Temporary battle firemen succeeded in bringing under control the most disastrous fire in the history of Augusta.

Many Buildings Gutted

The Harrison building and the Johnson building, two big steel and masonry modern buildings had been gutted by the flames, which started at two o'clock in the morning in the Harrison building. The Augusta Chronicle building was believed a total loss, the Albion hotel was badly damaged, the Geneva hotel was badly burned, Steiner's drug store was a total loss, and other business firms were hit hard.

Loss Put at $2,000,000

The loss was estimated at $2,000,000, while others placed it as low as $1,500,000.

So far as known there has been no loss of life.

Burning Embers Fire Buildings

The blaze started in the Harrison building about two o'clock, and rapidly spread to the Johnson building. Burning embers carried the destruction farther and it soon was evident that much property was doomed. Messages for assistance were sent, and shortly afterward the fire department of Aiken, S. C., arrived.

Outside Aid Not Needed

Macon, Atlanta and Columbia were asked for assistance, but the requests were withdrawn about five o'clock after apparatus and men had been loaded on a special train.

Two engines, hose and several firemen had been placed aboard a Georgia railroad special train when orders came to await further instructions. Later the request was canceled.

400 BANDITS BEAT MARINES

Argentine Force Trying to Rescue Armour Manager Repulsed by Outlaws.

Buenos Aires, Argentina, Nov. 28.—Four hundred well-armed bandits, entrenched in the village of Paso Ibanez, in the state of Santa Cruz, repulsed an attack by the marines landed from the cruiser Almirante Brown, according to belated dispatches received here. A number of the bandits and marines were killed or wounded during the engagement, in which the attackers used machine guns. The bandits held prisoner in the village an unknown number of the residents of the region, including British ranchers, and S. J. MacBey, manager of the Armour packing plant, near the town of Santa Cruz. Government reinforcements arrived on a transport at Rio Gallegos, but that point is so far from Paso Ibanez that it is feared a successful attempt to rescue the prisoners will be impossible for several days.

KOREAN QUIZZES JAPS

Thrill Caused at Public Luncheon at Washington.

Unknown Korean in Faultless English Asks Japanese Progressives for Declaration of Intentions.

Washington, Nov. 28.—A thrill was caused at the conclusion of a public luncheon here addressed by two leading liberal members of the Japanese diet when an unknown Korean in faultless English asked the Japanese progressives whether they themselves were in favor of granting independence to Korea and whether upon their return to Japan they would be willing to introduce a bill authorizing the return to Korea of its sovereignty.

The Japanese parliamentarians, Representatives D. Tagawa and Y. Uchihara, replied that they hoped the time would come when Korea would have back her liberty. They said they sympathized with Korea's aspirations, but that to help that country and make any movement for granting independence successful there must first come in Japan universal suffrage and a great advance in the progressive movement.

Representative Tagawa himself caused some commotion among his auditors when he declared that the clear evidence of the advancing liberal thought of Japan was to be found in the fact that a majority of the Japanese people think it right that Shantung should be returned to China, he added:

"I do not understand why negotiations upon this matter have been prolonged."

Turning to the Korean question he declared that there were "many people in Japan who are insisting that home rule be established in Korea."

CHINA HOLDS WORLD'S STAGE

Arms Conference Agree to Give Up Rights of Extra Territoriality.

TO ARGUE TROOP QUESTION

Far Eastern Committee of the Conference to Take Up Matter of Foreign Soldiers on Chinese Soil and Tax Problem.

Washington, Nov. 28.—In actual progress at the conference China is holding the stage. The conferees all agreed to give up the rights of extraterritoriality immediately, provided the execution of Chinese laws is up to the standard of the code submitted by the Chinese, which were unanimously held to be of high quality.

The question of leaving China to handle the whole postal service, abolishing the foreign post offices, was brought up, and Mr. Hughes stated that the different countries would be expected to deliver their opinions on this subject at once. The United States has one postoffice, the British twelve, the French thirteen and the Japanese one hundred and twenty-eight.

It was also announced that the Far Eastern committee will take up questions of foreign troops on Chinese soil, foreign police and wireless stations. Message to Congress.

In addition to much actual business put through, the following matters developed:

1. It became known that President Harding has decided to send a message to congress setting forward the impracticability of enforcing at the present time section thirty-four of the merchant marine act, giving preferential rates on goods shipped in American vessels. This connects itself with the conference in the general belief that the impracticability referred to means the probability that the work of the delegates would proceed less smoothly if questions relating to ocean shipping were pressed.

2. Much more emphatic statements were given than ever before, in official circles, to the belief of the President that the following steps would be natural, agreeable to him and expected by him, as an individual, if being always pointed out that they are for the conference, not for him, to determine:

(a.) That the agreements reached will be submitted to other nations, small and large, for ratifications. That in the case of most of the nations the ratifications will probably be at another conference but that in the case of a few countries, including Germany, the ratification should be at the present conference.

(b.) That the form in which the agreements are put by the conference is of no importance. In the opinion of the President a gentleman's agreement is as likely to hold as a treaty.

(c.) That Mr. Harding's association of nations should grow out of the increase in the agreements reached, and the increase in the number of nations brought in to ratify these agreements.

No Steps Taken

Also it was said that congress would no more think of building battleships in opposition to an executive agreement than the President would think of tying all the battleships up to the wharves, as he could literally do, acting as commander in chief.

3. While no technical steps were taken about land armaments, the position in which that subject is left by the Brand episode was made clear. It is believed that the work now being done on the quantity, character and the use of aircraft to be permitted, on the use of gas and on the whole question of war ethics, may lead the committees far into the general question of land armaments.

4. The French position and Lord Curzon's attack on it was the subject most discussed in conversations outside the committee rooms. In addition to the objections fully put by the British there is a special Italian objection that the French naval program is based on the desire to hold a route by which a million colored troops can be transported to Europe.

5. Doctor Wang, of the Chinese delegation, absolutely denied the printed story of friction between the British and Chinese. Mr. Hughes made an equally sweeping denial of the same rumor. The Secretary of State also denied, with repeated thoroughness, that there was the slightest excuse or basis for the printing of another story to the effect that Mr. Balfour had objected to the method of taking minutes. Mr. Hughes said the subject had not given rise to any discussion by anybody.

1. That she had recurrent attacks of bladder trouble causing her intense pain.

2. That while undergoing these attacks, it was her habit to tear off her clothes.
